

Penelope in Action

At Athena we believe software should be simple, smart and connected. That's why, in 2001, we created Penelope; an intuitive, flexible and user-friendly application able to handle all of your case management needs.

Let's look at Penelope from the perspective of a service provider. As soon as Jane logs into the system she can view any outstanding messages, notification or reminders in the top right of the screen. These can also be sent to Jane via email or text if she is not logged in. Her case load can be viewed directly on the home page with access to client files just a single click away.

Jane's communication hub can be accessed by clicking the collaboration layer on the far right of the screen. Here, Jane can reply to messages, create reminders and start new conversations with colleagues. In the workflow drawer, Jane can view her events and reminders for the day, as well as her to do list. Or, in the calendar drawer, Jane can simply view her schedule for the day, week or month, with access to each appointment, again, just one click away. And Penelope can let Jane know when her appointment has arrived as well.

Now let's look at Penelope from the perspective of a manager. Using the collaboration suite, Susan can easily track the status of tasks assigned to staff members, or approve or review tasks assigned to herself. Electronic signatures mean your agency can truly go paperless. And whether reviewing the progress of a specific client or the organization as a whole using one of our 100+ reports or dashboard add-ons, Penelope can meet your agency's reporting needs.
